

QUENDA

WHITEMAN PARK
CONSERVATION • RECREATION • EDUCATION

quenda

Isodon fusciventer

These stocky bandicoots are often confused for rats but look very different when you take a moment to check. They have long pointy noses and short tails.

If you have a quenda in your garden, you'll probably find triangular holes from their night-time diggings for food!

