

You and your class are invited to attend the...

Children's Gnangara Groundwater Festival 2022

Whiteman Park is excited to be able to hold the twentieth annual Children's Gnangara Groundwater Festival in 2022. You and your class can register now to attend this unique Festival where you will learn about our most precious resource – water!

Our Festival provides an opportunity for Western Australian middle and primary school students and their teachers to come together with a specific focus to learn more about groundwater and other related environmental topics through interactive and dynamic activities such as 'Groundwater Spider' and 'Danger in Our Town'.

Since 2002, nearly 20,000 students have attended the Festival, with many schools returning year after year! The feedback from teachers, students and presenters has always been overwhelmingly positive.

Program

The Festival is run over one day, with up to 28 classes able to participate this year, to address COVIDSafe requirements. Each class is scheduled into four hours of dynamic, hands-on learning activities, including the introductory 'Mega Water Show', one period of unscheduled 'Free Time' fun and a lunch break.*

All of the workshop activities align with learning areas of the National Curriculum and teachers receive a comprehensive 'Groundwater Guru' booklet that includes plenty of classroom ideas for both before and after the visit.

The Children's Gnangara Groundwater Festival aims to:

- inspire students to learn more about conserving water and the environment that surrounds and nourishes them.
- deliver an understanding of groundwater and the role it plays within natural and manmade ecosystems through fun, interactive workshops.
- provide teachers and children with a unique opportunity to interact with a number of environmental educators in the same place, on the same day.

Places are strictly limited – so register early!

Visit whitemanpark.com.au for further information about the Festival.

*Please note: There will be changes to the Festival's usual format to create a COVIDSafe event. Capacity may be reduced further if needed, so register early.
